PACIFIST HERO

A man like Charles Lindbergh must have appeared at least strange to his contemporaries in World War II and curious to people of the latter 50s and 60s.

The "Lone Eagle" died at 72 Monday in Hawaii. Not alone, as he had flown 1927 from New York to Paris. Anne Morrow Lindbergh and his son were there.

Here was an enigma. Lindy risked it all at age 25 to solo the Atlantic. He won medals and awards one time valued at half a million dollars. He was a hero among heroes of the Roaring 20s.

Perhaps it was kidnapping of his first infant son, found dead after a ransom of $50,000. Bruno Hauptmann paid with his life upon conviction as kidnap-murderer.

Whatever it was, Lindbergh opposed U. S. entry into World War II, espousing a pacifist line that led to indirect, public criticism from the White House itself. Lindy resigned a colonelcy in the Army Air Corps. Yet he trained fighter pilots in the Pacific Theatre on fuel conservation, techniques his lone flight in the "Spirit of St. Louis" proved in crossing the Atlantic.

He was even credited in a book by Gen. Hap Arnold with two Japanese Zeros shot down in unsolicited dogfights. He said nothing of the episodes. He wanted no more publicity.

He assisted in mapping first world-wide air routes to Europe, South America and the Orient. And he quietly aided early technology in rocket experiments and the mechanical heart. He last was interested in 1972 in stone-age Tasadays, cave dwellers in the Philippines...

He was scourged for his stand against U. S. intervention in World War II. At war's end, he thought Soviet - Chinese threats were as great or greater than Germany and Japan in a nuclear age. He was denied service during that war, but participated as a civilian.

Kids used to read books about "Lucky Lindy". After growing up, those same kids may all but have called him "traitor".

Heroic, pacifistic, individualistic, he was perhaps anticipating the youth of the 60s who would not fight in Vietnam. Older now, they seek amnesty and return to a nation finally out of Southeast Asia.

Yet, he never was accused of cowardice as those who left this country for Canada or Scandinavia. But a similar sense of the senselessness of war emerges.

Was he saying: Fight as a man in tune with nature, but not as a creature of carnage or nuclear catastrophe?

If ever an American of the 20th Century could question the substance of world war or its outcome, he could.

He is dead now.

Registration Still Open For TJC Extension Classes

Temple Junior College will offer three courses at its extension campus in Cameron this fall. Dr. Harry C. Farrell, Jr., Dean of the College, has announced.

Students who did not register for the courses (Federal Government, General Psychology, and Real Estate Fundamentals) during special Cameron registration held recently may register at TJC's main campus in Temple on August 28 and 29 from 9:30 - 11:30 a.m. and 1-3 p.m., Dr. Farrell said.

The Cameron extension campus is offered to Cameron area residents through the cooperation of the Cameron public school system, Dr. Farrell said. Classes at the extension will be held in Yoe High School in Cameron.

The college transfer and technical-vocational classes begin on September 3 and end on December 17, Dr. Farrell said. Class meetings will be on either Monday or Tuesday evenings from 6:30 - 9:20 p.m.

Tuition and fees for the Federal Government course and General Psychology courses will be $34 for one course and $43 for two courses, Dr. Farrell said. Tuition for the Real Estate course will be $40.

Those who have not registered should report to the Registrar's Office at TJC. Tuition and fees must be paid at registration. Students may register through the last day of TJC late registration, September 11, Dr. Farrell said.

Harold Whittington will be the instructor for Govt. 2613, which will meet Monday evenings in Room 3. Malcolm Hodnett will teach Psyc. 2613 scheduled to meet Tuesdays in Room 8. Instructor for Real Estate Fundamentals, scheduled to meet Monday nights in Room 6, will be Daniel Kirkley.

New Library Hours

The Cameron Public Library will resume its fall and winter schedule starting Tuesday, September 3, when the library will stay open until 7:30 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

City Officials Study New Federal Program

Cameron city officials are attending a seminar on community development at Dallas August 28-30. The seminar is to explain benefits from the new Housing and Urban Development Act of 1974.

Attending from Cameron are Mayor Gene Blake, City Councilman Gene Lumpkin, and A. W. McCullin, Community Development Agency executive director.

Under the new Act, significant decision making responsibilities will be returned to the local level under this new program. At least $2.5 billion will be available to meet local community development needs during the first year, beginning January 1, 1975.

At the seminar, sessions are tailored to meet the needs of different communities according to their potential to benefit from the Act. Cities are divided into small group workshops by city size and by their past experience with HUD programs. The opening session of the seminar includes an audiovisual presentation on the Act followed by an address on the issues and opportunities for cities under the community development block grant.

Questions and answers on the Act follow the address that afternoon. The second day features workshops on the Housing Assistance Plan and workshops in the afternoon on the application process. Workshops on the third day will outline procedures for compliance with the Act's certification requirements.

The Act was signed into law this week and all funding for new development programs will be through the Act, McCullin said. "The seminar is going to tell us how we go about getting our hands on the money," he added.

Collision At Maraksville Injures Youths

An accident on the Maraksville Road shortly after midnight Sunday sent several youths to area hospitals and resulted in heavy damage to vehicles.

According to investigating DPS trooper Leroy Broadus, a pickup driven by David Eanes of Cameron parked at an angle to the road so lights could shine on a disabled vehicle at the side of the road. In the pickup with Eanes were Jackie Raymond and Roland Graham, also of Cameron.

The disabled vehicle was fixed and drove away from the scene and a car driven by Jimmy Bailey of Cameron stopped to see what was going on. The three from Eanes' pickup went over to the car to talk to Bailey.

According to Broadus, another pickup driven by Keith Bean of Cameron rammed into the rear of Eanes' pickup and knocked it into the three youths at Bailey's car.

Local ambulances took all victims to St. Edward Hospital and Graham and Raymond were transferred to Scott and White at Temple. Graham suffered a compound fracture of the leg and Raymond had a broken jaw.

Eanes and Bean were admitted to St. Edward suffering lacerations and abrasions. Craig White, a passenger in the Bean vehicle, was treated for abrasions and released from St. Edward. Bailey was not injured.

John Henderson Appointed To State Bar Group

John B. Henderson, Cameron attorney, is one of eight lawyers appointed as members of the State Bar of Texas grievance committee for a seven-county Central Texas area.

Announcement was made by State Bar of Texas President Lloyd Lochridge in Austin.

Other appointees are Angus McSwain, Noley Bice, William V. Dunham, P. M. Johnson, Thomas A. Witcher all of Waco, and Richard Mewhinney of Temple.

The members will be responsible for receiving and investigating any reports of violations of the State Bar's Code of Professional Responsibility which outlines a lawyer's ethical rules in eight separate canons.

"There is no more important function of the State Bar than the vigorous enforcement of our canons of ethics," Lochridge said. "Many of the complaints the committee will receive will be simply the result of a misunderstanding which we can quickly resolve by restoring lines of communication between a client and his lawyer. In more serious cases, the grievance committee has the authority to seek a reprimand, law license suspension or disbarment."

Written complaints may be sent to a committee member's office or to the State Bar, Austin Texas 787-711. Once a complaint is filed with the committee, a notice to appear is sent to the lawyer and the complaining client. Each person testifies under oath before the committee in a closed session. Complaintants are allowed to bring witnesses and may also be represented by a lawyer.

MOPPING UP is just one of the chores faced by kindergarten teachers as school opened and a full group of youngsters convened in the lunchroom. The lunchroom experience is just one of the many enjoyed by the children as a new world unfolds.

Two Alcoa Scholarships Open

Sons and daughters of Alcoaans throughout Central Texas have begun applying for the two $4,000 four-year Alcoa Foundation college scholarships awarded at Aluminum Company of America's Rockdale Works.

Fred P. Bergeron, Texas area manager, said 30 scholarships have been given to dependents of local employees since the corporate-wide program began in 1953. Winners last spring were Gary Spence of Rockdale and Rob Aanstoos of Taylor.

Bergeron said applications for this year's scholarships are available at the plant through departmental supervisors. Candidates must fill out an application and give it to their high school principals by Monday, September 9.

Applicants must be in the upper half of their senior class or have at least a C-plus average, Bergeron said. The award program includes step-children of Alcoaans if they reside in the employee's household, whether or not they have been legally adopted.

Also, candidates' parents must have three years continuous service with the company. Sons and daughters of Alcoaans who are retired, deceased or on leave are eligible under the same conditions.

The local Alcoa Foundation Scholarship selection board, chaired by Dr. Walter Vincent, superintendent of the Rockdale Independent School District, will screen applications to determine eligibility.

"Students who qualify will be notified by the selection board and given directions for taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test, administered by College Entrance Examination Board," Bergeron said. The examination fee is paid by the Alcoa Foundation.

"When test results are returned, the local selection board will review candidates' credentials, considering factors of scholastic achievement, promise and such personal qualities as character and leadership ability. Although financial need is not a primary consideration, all other things being equal, it is a factor."

Scholarships are payable at the rate of $1,000 per year at the start of the fall semester. Bergeron said each scholarship carries with it an unrestricted grant of $1,200 for the college or university attended by the recipient, payable at the rate of $300 per year.

Joining Dr. Vincent on the local selection board are area school superintendents Buddy R. Dulin, Cameron; Charles Martin, Milano; B. C. Sims, Thorndale; A. K. McCown, Thrall; Joe Skrivner, Taylor; Jack Faulds, Caldwell; and A. P. Kleinschmidt, Lexington.

The local Alcoa Foundation scholarship sponsoring committee is composed of Goodhue Smith of Cameron, John M. Griffith of Taylor and George Brett and Duncan McGregor of Rockdale.

DPS Predicts 34 Deaths In Labor Day Traffic

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, today estimated that traffic accidents in Texas over the Labor Day Weekend will claim 34 lives.

Speir noted that traffic deaths in Texas, which earlier were running up to 30 % under the 1973 toll, have been rising throughout the summer months. He said the upward trend is related to heavier traffic and an alarming disregard for the 55 mile speed limit.

The DPS director said every effort would be made to prevent accidents and deaths by placing all available DPS troopers on duty during the holiday period which extends from 6 p.m. Friday, August 30, through midnight Monday, September 2.

US, Panama Declare War On Yellow Fever

By Colin Hale

Panama City

Reuter - The United States and Panama have declared war on a tiny jungle insect in an effort to stop the Northward march of yellow fever, a tropical killer which claimed more than 1,000 lives in Central America 24 years ago.

Several cases of yellow fever, including one which proved fatal, were recorded at the end of the rainy season last January in a jungle area about 60 miles east of Panama City.

The reports caused alarm both in Central America and Panama, where a massive inoculation program was implemented.

Scientists here subsequently tracked down the yellow fever virus in jungle mosquitoes called haemagogus. They found that the virus lay dormant during the dry season, which extends from May to late December. Its presence was detected again last June in the jungle mosquito, which transmits the virus to monkeys and sometimes directly to humans.

Scientists also suspect that the three-toed sloth can contract yellow fever and recover from it. If so, they are greater potential spreaders of the disease than monkeys since they can swim, enabling them to cross the Panama Canal.

Following the discovery of the virus in the jungle insects, scientists at the Gorgas Memorial Laboratory here and at the Middle America Research Institute (Mary) in the Canal Zone launched a campaign to try to stop the haemagogus mosquitoes from transmitting the virus to their city cousins, the aedes regypti mosquitoes.

Although the disease is a threat to people living in jungle areas, it is more lethal when contracted by city dwellers.

The aedes aegypti mosquito has reappeared in Panama after an absence of 25 years. It is common in Central American, Mexico, and the southern United States, particularly Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, Alabama and Florida.

U. S. Health authorities fear that if the disease moves north it could spread into the United States through banana-loading ports in Honduras or Guatemala.

Dr. Pedro Galindo, director of the Gorgas Memorial Laboratory, said the disease was moving north at the rate of about four to six miles a week.

He was unwilling to estimate when it could cross the canal, but said if it continued unchecked it could reach the Costa Rican border in two years.

Dr. Galindo and Dr. Karl Johnson, director of Mary, hope an experiment now under way would prevent the disease from crossing the canal.

The two U. S. - funded laboratories have mapped out two small plots in the jungle, 50 miles east of here. One of them will be sprayed and the other will be used as a control area.

Trails have been hacked through the jungle and samples will be collected from mosquitoes.

The experiment, supported by a $325,000 grant from the U. S. Agency for International Development, will be a joint effort.

Panama will supply equipment and supplies while the United States will provide logistical support. The U. S. Health Service The Pan American Health Organization and the Smithsonian tropical research unit are sending experts.

If the experiment is successful, large - scale spraying of the jungle canopy could halt the northern march of yellow fever. If not, the scientists will try to determine what happens to the virus during the dry season.

Success in determining what happens to the virus during the dry season might lead to a more economical means of stopping the disease than spraying, according to Dr. Johnson.

As for the sloth, the scientists plan to release 50 of them with electronic detectors attached to their bodies in an area inhabited by jungle mosquitos carrying the virus.

If the sluggish animals develop yellow fever anti-bodies, then another carrier of the disease would have been identified.

Unpaved Road To Launch Pad

It would seem Governor Briscoe is timing changes in school finance techniques with the approaching general election.

He announced Monday state aid payments will be increased by $73 millions for September to relieve local district financial binds.

It means money in advance of usual distribution to avoid interest on interim financing.

The Governor also noted he will recommend emergency legislation in January, 1975, to increase state aid to local school districts by $10 per student as well as a plan to restructure Texas school finance.

Rep. Dan Kubiak, of Rockdale, is the first to propose acceleration of state aid payments and is planning introduction of a new finance proposal in the 1975 Legislature, where he is chairman of the House education committee.

Governor Briscoe says the early aid payment was decided "in concert" with Texas education commissioner Marlon Brockett, members of House and Senate education committees and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Point is something is being done even as the November general election draws closer. Governor Briscoe told a press meeting in January that a study of the Texas education system would be completed by this fall, probably the basis for his proposals.

Gilmer - Aiken was established 25 years ago and this study and refinancing measures come absolutely none too soon.

The difference between Texas of 1949 and 1974 in education needs is like comparing a moon rocket lifting from a sophisticated launch pad and a Model T traveling on an unpaved road.

Universal Justice...

Waco has a remarkable thing at the "freedom fountain" in front of the Waco Convention Center.

It is the word "freedom" embellishing a level surrounding the fountain in more than 50 translations of the word: Tongues European, Arabic, Oriental and Indic.

What is remarkable that a city in Central Texas can pick a central characteristic of people everywhere and spell it or "pictograph" it out in its many renditions.

Like the water rushing over the geometric figure at the center, this span of literal translation shows freedom is not only a word, but expression of universal justice.

"Low Down"
FROM THE
Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

Rep. Mario Biaggi "... Lawmakers, local, State and Federal, have in recent years, attempted to fulfill their responsibilities to their constituents by enacting strong criminal laws designed to help allay citizen fears about the ever-surge in crime rate in this country.

"Those responsible for law enforcement, particularly the judiciary, have on the other hand systematically destroyed these efforts through lax and lenient methods of imposing and enforcing these laws...

"New York State currently has one of the strongest gun control laws in the United States which was brought about largely to attempt to combat the dramatic increases in homicides by handgun in the State. Included among the provisions of the law is a penalty of up to 7 years in prison for the conviction. Yet as good as the law is in theory, thanks to the judicial system in New York State, it has been virtually ineffective...

"One must ask? What is the sense of a town council or State legislature, or even the U. S. Congress enacting strong criminal laws, when the enforcers to these laws are so lax and reluctant to enforce them?"

"Out of the convictions which were achieved, many of them were garnered through the use of plea bargaining which resulted in these charges being reduced to misdemeanors..."

"The American judicial system has for years religiously upheld the rights of the criminal at the expense of their obligation to the law-abiding citizens of this Nation who look to the judiciary to use every method at their disposal to get the lawless elements in our society off the streets and behind bars..."

"As a former policeman, for 23 years, I have seen firsthand how efforts to uphold and enforce the law have been devastated at the hands of soft judges who would rather coddle a criminal than punish him..."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Last September, New York enacted a law to get hard-drug pushers off the streets. Restrictions on plea bargaining put the violators in jail; some for life. The number of pushers dwindled and the flow of heroin virtually stopped.

Plea bargaining for handgun law violators should also be restricted.

Battle Lines Drawn Up For Democratic Convention

Battle lines are drawn for the State Democratic Convention here September 17.

Liberal delegates, although apparently outnumbered, asserted their intentions at a recent meeting in San Antonio to claim their full share of convention plums.

— First, they made clear, they will fight for proportional representation on the State Democratic Executive Committee, the party's policy-making and house-keeping body in Texas.

— Second, they are demanding their share of the 76 delegates to the national Democratic mid-term mini-convention in Kansas City next December.

— The liberals also made preparations for expressing their views on the party platform, resolutions and rules.

— Finally, they indicated they may challenge Gov. Dolph Briscoe's choice for SDEC chairman and other top committee officers. Choices of incumbent governors for these posts traditionally have gone unchallenged where they have majority control of conventions.

The "open party" Democrats at the San Antonio session adopted a platform committing themselves to a state party organization that will support Democratic candidates and principles at all levels rather than "promoting the policies of incumbent governors."

Bob Bullock of Austin, Democratic nominee for comptroller, is being urged to oppose incumbent SDEC Chairman Calvin Guest of Bryan, Governor Briscoe's choice for a second term.

Meanwhile, the national Democratic charter commission broke up in anger when party regulars and reformers clashed over reform measures in the proposed Democratic constitution.

GOVERNORS TO MEET — Governors of the southern states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands will meet near here September 8-11 to discuss a wide range of problems, including economy and energy.

Governor Briscoe is host to the Southern Governors Conference which will meet at Lakeway, a luxury resort on Lake Travis 20 miles northwest of the Capital City.

About 300 reporters will join the 19 governors and their staffs for the three-day business meeting, and the social rounds of tennis, golf, sailing and parties.

Gov. Melvin Evans, governor of the Virgin Islands, is chairman of the Southern Governors Conference for 1973-74.

INSURANCE JARGON HIT — The State Board of Insurance is declaring war on "the fine print, double talk and gobbledy-gook" in insurance policies, according to Board Chairman Joe Christie.

Christie said the average policy holder cannot understand policy jargon, and recent tests show Einstein's theory of relativity is more readable than an average hospital insurance plan.

Christie said efforts will be made in the next session of the legislature to improve "the readability factor" of insurance policies. He recommended that other state agencies give some attention to similar readability problems involving documents over which they have jurisdiction.

No-fault auto insurance will be another subject for legislative consideration in 1975, Christie told Texas Bankers Association at a conference here. He said a recent study on the subject by the Lyndon Baines Johnson School of Public Affairs will be of major help to lawmakers.

AG OPINIONS — The University of Texas must give a legislator access to files on UT land leases, but may keep confidential land appraisals and sealed bid contents, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions,

Hill concluded:

• Records of a city's exercise of licensing authority over electrical installations is public information and should be disclosed.

• Police supplementary reports of accidents, including witnesses' statements and photographs, although involving possible litigation against a city, are part of the official record and are not excepted from disclosure.

• An individual who is not a registered engineer may not display or use membership in or certification by an association using the term "engineer" in its name in his professional or business activities.

OLD

Dear editor:

I have been working on a theory for permanent world peace and I'd like to know what you think of it.

It's fairly simple, once you get hold of it.

Take the current situation on Cyprus. As I understand it, Turkey wants part of the island, Greek another, and the Cypriots haven't been consulted either way, so it's only natural that Greece and Turkey should fight about it until Henry Kissinger can figure out how to divide the island as he has every right to do since both sides are fighting with our weapons.

There's the point. An undivided country is an open invitation to warfare. All countries smaller than the United States, China, Russia and anybody else who has the atom bomb should be divided at once before fighting breaks out and kept that way, and it should have been done years and years ago. You don't see North Dakota fighting South Dakota, do you? North Carolina fighting South Carolina? Those places got used to the idea of being divided long ago and settled down to peaceful co-existence.

If Henry Kissinger would sit down with a map and a ruler and divide every small country exactly in half and then call a world conference to see what other countries get which halves, we might put an end to these constance squabbles and settle down to waiting around until somebody figures out an answer to inflation.

Some may argue that the small countries aren't going to like this, but have you ever heard of a small country being consulted when a bigger country decided to take it over? And of course some may point out that there's a South Korea and a North Korea and a South Vietnam and a North Vietnam and they're still fighting, but who go around emphasizing and bad side of a good theory.

The world is not all bad.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

How many of you businessmen would think about coming to a little country bank for a loan of $100,000 or more?

Well, then, start thinking about the Lott State Bank.

Lott State may be just a little country bank, but we're big on making loans. And that's worth thinking about.

Perhaps you're already an established businessman. And what you need is capital for expansion. Or accounts receivables financing. Or a line of credit that will let you react more successfully to changing market conditions.

On the other hand, maybe you're a man or woman with a good credit rating, a solid plan that's rich with potential, and a driving ambition to succeed in business. What you need is a resourceful banker who's willing to help.

You'll find your kind of banker at Lott State.

We're helping a lot of good businessmen with their finances. And we recently loaned $100,000 to a 25-year-old man to open a new retail store.

Some bankers might not have made him that loan, but we saw him as an excellent risk. At Lott State, we tend to put a lot of faith in the quality of the man.

We'd like for you to come into the Lott State Bank, pull up a chair, and get down to business about the loan you need.

Demonstrations Complete On County Sorghum

By Bill McCutchen

Applying research to Milam County conditions is the reason for Result Demonstrations in Milam County. Some of the 1974 demonstrations on cotton and grain sorghum have been completed and the results are enumerated briefly in this column.

A cotton variety demonstration was conducted on the Joe Mueck farm this year. Many of these varieties were supplied by Dr. Luther Bird.

plant breeder at A&M and others are new and standard varieties supplied by seed companies. Varieties in order of yield of seed cotton produced per acre included: CAMD - 2280#, SP37 - 21-20#, CAMO-H - 2040#, Stripper 31 - 1840#, Louis-17-20#, Lankart 3840 - 1680#, Quapaw - 1680#, Bonham - 1680, and Lyman - 480#.

Lyman is a glandless cotton that was heavily damaged by bollworms. The gossopol in normal cotton varieties retards bollworm population to a greater degree than most producers realize. The stand was also thin on Lyman as there was not much seed available at planting time.

SORGHUM TESTS

A grain sorghum variety test on the Doyal Arnold farm near Buckholts resulted in the following acre yields: Surgro YE 90 - 4221#, Pioneer 846 - 4178#, NK222-4142#, Funks G-522 - 3994#, Big Country HD - 344 - 3985#, HT 124 - 3659#, Funk G-577 - 3390#, and Golden Acres TE tops - 3203# per acre.

Doyal noted that Big Country HD-344 had a 15% lodging and Surgro YE 90 had a 5% lodging.

This demonstration was combine harvested. On the W. E. Beckhusen farm in the Little River bottom near Buckholts, Asgrow Dorado TX yielded - 5879# per acre, Funks G-522 - 5722#, ACCG-R-1029-5671# Pioneer 846 - 5608#, YE-90 5464#, T. E. Tops - 5266#, NK 233 - 5228#, Pioneer 8311-5004#, Funks G-577 - 4999#, and MK233A-4853#.

Wilburn noted that Dorado TX was leaning quite a bit with 5% lodging and estimated that wind damage could have been heavy on this variety.

On the John A. and Johnnie Smith Farm on the Brazos bottom near Branchville; Acco 1019 yielded 5362# per acre, MK270A - 5273#, Co-op SG40 - 4886#, Acco 1029 4757#, Funks G-522 - 47-29#, Pioneer 8417 - 4055#, and Pioneer 8311 - 4055#.

Smith's only comment was that Co-op SG-40 did not have good head exertion. All varieties were standing well.

Navy Sons Eligible For Academy

Sons of career military officers and enlisted men, deceased or disabled veterans or servicemen missing in action have an "unequaled" opportunity to enter next year's class of 1979 at the U. S. Naval Academy.

According to Captain Ronald A. Campbell, the Academy's Candidate Guidance Officer, "opportunity might be knocking at the door for some young men on the basis of their father's military service."

For example, he said the President may grant, on a competitive basis, 100 appointments annually to sons of career officers and enlisted personnel of the Armed Forces and Coast Guard. The parent must either be on active duty now; retired with pay from the service; or have died while retired.

Young men between the ages of 16-21 years who are interested in the Naval Academy should contact their local Navy Recruiter at Temple for information.

Federal Crop Insurance Available For Farmers

Mrs. Louise Gilliam, local representative of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, will attend a regional meeting of the Corporation at the Flagship Inn in Galveston, Sept. 4 and 5.

The FCIC program in Milam County and 14 other counties are directed by her. She is also assisted by Mrs. Rheta Fortune, as well as several salesmen, loss adjusters and appraisers.

Mrs. Gilliam is available in her office at 800 Franklin Avenue, Waco, to accept applications, acreage reports and notices of loss from 8 to 5, Monday through Friday. It is also her responsibility to keep insured producers aware of reporting deadlines, end of insurance periods and policy changes.

FCIC, a non-profit agency of the United States Department of Agriculture, provides all-risk insurance protection to growers on a voluntary basis. Locally, insurance is available on Cotton and Grain Sorghum. It has covered such disasters as drought, excessive moisture, insects, plant diseases and freeze in its 36-year history.

According to the Contract Service Center at College Station, producers in the Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma region have protected their crop investments this year for a total value of more than $50 million.

Due to drought conditions this season, the Corporation will be paying indemnities to many insured producers.

Procedure meetings are scheduled annually by the Contract Service Center to train and refresh county personnel in the Corporation's policies and procedures. The meetings also provide an opportunity for county officials to discuss their operations with each other.

This year, the training will be carried out through a series of workshops.

New Hybrid To Resist Greenbug

Dr. George McBee, resident director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station today announced that a grain sorghum hybrid with a fairly high level of resistance to the greenbug is expected to be available to producers in 1976.

The announcement was made during a bimonthly meeting of the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board, which has partially funded greenbug studies.

The seed of the pollinator is expected to be available to commercial seed companies next year and the varieties should be available to the farmer in 1976.

"First, if we develop a hybrid on which a greenbug cannot live, then a bio-type may result which can live on the plant. Then we would have to develop another hybrid which is resistant to the bio-type."

"Secondly," he continued, "we need greenbugs to remain on the plants as a source of food for beneficials, -parasites and predators."

Dr. McBee added that more information on the exact nature of the hybrid will be released following additional testing during the harvest period.

Cost Cutting Examined In Inflation Fight Program

In calling inflation "Public Enemy No. 1," President Gerald Ford pinpointed the source of America's most pressing problem. A situation that effects government and householders alike, the best remedial action appears to be stringent cost cutting on all fronts.

A four-part examination of the impact of inflation and some methods to combat it, featured in the September issue of the Reader's Digest, bring out the following points.

Statistics issued by the Labor Department, while recording the rate of inflation, unemployment and dollar purchasing power, do not tell the full story, the article declares. In terms of the 1940 dollar, the 1973 dollar was worth 31 cents; and the 1974 dollar is estimated to be worth even less - 29 cents. In the course of this downward slide the federal budget showed surpluses in only nine years.

The current 1974 federal deficit is estimated at $3.5 million, and efforts are now under way to prune the budget for 1975. In an interview condensed from U. S. News & World Report, Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon explains the possibilities as he sees them. Legislation passed in previous years that spell out obligations for more than one fiscal year - Social Security is one of them - must be examined more closely. He urges cooperation between Congress and the White House in avoiding future legislation of this type, and a greater willingness on the part of the American public to accept pay-as-you-go funding as a governmental principal. It is a little-understood fact, Simon goes on to say, that current federal borrowing, due to deficit spending, takes about 60 percent of the funds raised in the securities markets.

Secretary Simon believes it is possible to cut $5 billion from next year's budget by examining all facets of government spending, and by paying particular attention to areas where the budget has grown tremendously. He is convinced that the American public, now deeply concerned about inflation, wants cuts to be found. "I'm going to take the attitude: 'we haven't tried that before; it doesn't work,' I suggest that it has never really been tried before with everybody's heart behind it," he declared.

The householder faces the dilemma of a fixed budget and soaring costs, since deficit spending is discouraged for individual families. Both food and college costs have risen dramatically, and the Digest article explores methods to cope with both. Hearty old-fashioned dishes are advised as a method of stretching the food dollar the farthest. Baked beans, brown bread and Indian pudding is a Boston meal that goes back generations and contains enough protein to fill the entire daily needs of a family of four plus a guest. Based on average 1974 prices, the protein ingredients could be purchased at a cost of $1.73 and are the equivalent of $5.62 worth of USDA choice round steak. Legumes, bread grains and rice are all valuable sources of protein. The best bet, the article suggests, is to supplement vegetable and starch protein with small portions of high-grade proteins from eggs, milk, meat and poultry.

A four-year college student education can run from $10,000 to 20,000 and more. Finding the best educational buy and the most humane financing requires diligence and shopping around, but it can be done. Factors to look for are deferred-payment plans, work-study programs, federal funding and, often, state or local colleges. By mapping a strategy which takes advantage of many options, it is possible to cut the cost of higher education, the Digest concludes.

No matter what the approach, it is evident that everyone of us will need to pitch in if we are ever to win the fight against inflation.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

It's that time of year again when parents should attempt to "safety proof" their youngsters - many of whom are entering school for the first time.

Whether walking, riding in a bus or car, or bicycling to school, plans should be made to ensure the safety of every child, reminds the Texas State Department of Health.

Darting across streets without looking, crossing a mid-block from between parked cars, and doing bicycle tricks in traffic are just a few of the pitfalls to be avoided, advises the Health Department.

Parents can caution their children about all careless practices, and they also can show them. If your child is starting to school - or going to a new school - it's a good idea to make the trip at least once with the child.

If he will be pedaling to and from school every day - often in inclement weather - you'll want to be doubly sure that your child is observing safety rules. If you're a motorist in the vicinity of schools, be especially wary, says the State Health Department.

What are the trouble spots for bicyclists and motorists? Collisions between motor vehicles and bicycles occurs about as follows:

- *Well over half at intersections.
- *Seven out of ten during daylight hours.
- *Most bicycle riders killed or injured in traffic accidents, were violating a traffic law at the time of the incidents.

- *Half of the motor vehicle-bicycle accidents involved a violation on the part of the motor vehicle operator.
- *One out of five bicycles involved in accidents had some mechanical defect.

Some of the most common traffic violations of cyclists are (in order of frequency):

- *Failure to yield right-of-way. (In most cases, the cyclists did not "see" the car; in some cases he intentionally infringed on the motorist's right-of-way.)
- *Riding in the center of the street.
- *Speed too fast for conditions.

ditions of traffic and road surface.

*Disregard of traffic control devices - signal lights and stop signs.

*Improper turning.

To avoid such situations as just described, here are some safety rules for bicyclists:

*A skillful bicycle rider always has his bike under control. He never drives too fast and he never rides too far. He always has both hands free to steer.

*The cyclist must develop skill in balancing and pedaling to avoid swerving into traffic, hitting a fixed object, running off the sidewalk or highway. Parents have the responsibility to be certain their child has the skill to cope with traffic before permitting him to ride on the street.

*Every bicycle driver should be familiar with the laws governing bicycling in his community, or the one in which he is riding. These rules are usually available through the school or local police.

*Cyclists must ride on the right side of the street with the flow of traffic; not on the left, facing traffic.

UT Learning Center Help To Foreigners

A special center that The University of Texas operates in downtown Austin lends a helping hand to adults with rusty minds and to those who think in languages other than English.

Since its opening in 1968, UT's Adult Learning Center has been a boon to migrant workers, school dropouts and visitors from foreign lands.

In 1975, the center hopes to attract 1,200 persons who want to improve themselves to get a better job, qualify for American citizenship or earn the equivalent of a high school diploma.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

Austin--Fall is a traditional time for apartment hunting for many Texans. Students returning to universities, summer new-weds, recent graduates embarking on a career and a life away from home, families who for financial reasons cannot buy a house at present--all may be in the market for an apartment. And with the wide variety available to choose from, selecting an apartment can be difficult.

Our Consumer Protection Division attorneys say you can save yourself possible disappointments and inconveniences if you know what to look for in an apartment, how to safeguard your security deposit, what to keep in mind when signing a lease or rental contract, and what your obligations are as a renter.

They suggest the following general guide to apartment hunting:

*Determine roughly what location and price range you want. Then get recommendations from friends, check newspaper ads, consult real estate dealer listings, or get assistance from professional apartment finders.

Decide in advance what special features you're looking for. Some people prefer the quiet of small complexes, others like the activity of a large complex. Tennis courts, swimming pools, saunas, putting greens, exercise rooms, game rooms, laundries, and many other amenities are available at some apartments.

*When you have narrowed your list of possible apartments to about three by telephone inquiries, visit them in person and be sure your first impression is a good one. You should notice a general air of cleanliness and regular, adequate maintenance.

*Your first impression of an individual apartment should also be favorable. It should appear clean, with no loose carpeting or linoleum, no broken or cracked windows.

*Make sure all appliances, water faucets, toilets, hot water heaters, air conditioning and heating are in good working order. Check them yourself. Don't take someone else's word!

*Check all door locks and make sure locks will be changed before you move in.

*See that windows open easily. You may need them for ventilation or as an escape route in an emergency. Check large complexes for adequate stairs or elevators, and located fire extinguishers.

*Talk with the people who may be your neighbors. Find out if they have had satisfactory relationships with the apartment owner or manager. Ask them if there have been any rent increases in the past year or so. Also, if possible, inquire about the approximate range of monthly utility bills.

*When you have found one apartment you like, think it over a day or so before committing yourself.

*Then, if you still want the apartment, begin to check on the specifics. What utilities and repairs will be your responsibility? Are there special rules or regulations imposed by the owner or manager? How much security deposit is required? Are there any restrictions on children or pets?

*Before signing a contract of lease, go through the apartment with the manager or owner, listing any damage. Make sure there are two copies of the list, that you both sign them, and that you keep a copy for your records.

Feminist Is First French Secretary of State

PARIS
Reuter - A striking 57-year old woman who made her name as a crusading journalist has become France's first secretary of state for women's affairs. Her task is to secure a better deal for women.

She is Francoise Giroud, a well-known writer in the left-leaning magazine 'L'Express', who has now joined a conservative government to pursue her long fight for women's rights.

Her aim is to integrate women into French life so completely that there will be no need for a women's liberation movement.

"Women represent one-third of France's work force and most of the country's economic activity depends on them," she says.

Mrs. Giroud says many problems need to be settled in a country where women have been held back for many years and treated as members of some kind of lower caste.

French women were only given the right to vote after World War II.

Yoemen Try 1st Scrimmage

Local football came alive Friday night in Bryan when the Yoemen met the A&M Cons. Tigers. The cool weather came as a break to the players after finishing two-a-day workouts in extremely hot weather.

In the first offensive series the backfield included Jeff Smitherman starting quarterback, Dennis Hollas and Willy Bell running backs and Gene Kopriva filling the full back position. The first touchdown came late in the first offensive series when Smitherman connected with split-end Mike White for the touchdown.

Tiger quarterback Bill Mcgee did not have a chance to get his offense moving because of well executed defensive play by the interior line.

Joe Smitherman was injured during the series and is expected to be out of action til mid-week.

During the second offensive series Ken Scott filled the quarterback position. The deepest penetration during this series was when fullback Gene Kopriva scrambled to the 8 yard line. The second defense only netted the Tigers penetration to the 27 yard line.

After the scrimmage Coach Cauley gave praise to Jeff Smitherman and running back Willy Bell. Cauley said that the offensive line needed improvement on pass protection, however he was pleased with the overall performance.

Cauley also praised Yoe High band director Jerry Bartley for his outstanding support during the Yoemen's pre-season workouts. Bartley directed the band in two pep rallies during their workouts.

The next scrimmage is scheduled at Yoe Field, Friday night. The Yoemen will face Gatesville and there will be no cost to the public.

Carr Ratings In Herald For 3rd Year

This is the third year the Herald has used the Carr ratings, and in the past this has been an excellent source for football rating.

Don Carr, the founder and publisher of the Carr Ratings laid the ground work for the ratings in the early 50's. The Carr Ratings were first published in 1959. Today the ratings are based on sound mathematical principles that are applied exactly the same to each and every team.

At the present the Carr ratings are unchallenged for accuracy. They are a pure analysis that is, by far, "the most complete ratings service in history to ever receive "Official collegiate recognition and endorsement." They have drawn praise of people throughout the world of sports and newsmen from Coast to Coast.

The freshman squad will begin play at 6:30 with the junior varsity to follow at 7:30. Then the varsity is scheduled to begin at 8:30. After effective running last week by Willy Bell and Gene Kopriva, Coach Cauley is enthusiastic about the coming football season.

Jeff Smitherman is expected to lead the first offensive squad after having a successful night as quarterback against A&M Cons. Tigers.

The scrimmage will be played at Yoe Field and there will be no cost to the public. The Yoemen will open their regular schedule here against the Taylor Ducks, Sept. 6.

Tulsa Horse Show Draws 1084 Entries

The American Junior Quarter Horse Association's Fifth Annual Convention and Third National Finals Horse Show held in Tulsa, Oklahoma, August 6 through 10, broke all previous records when 1084 entries representing 38 states and three Canadian provinces participated during the action-filled week.

Highlighting the festivities was the awards banquet held Saturday night. The top ten winners in each of the 24 contests shared over $24,000 in prizes including hand-made trophy saddles, diamond studded belt buckles, patent leather show halters, saddle blankets, and coolers.

Youth from six South-central states captured 72 of the top 240 awards.

The 1084 entries, and increase of 288 over last year, represented the top ten horses in each of the American Quarter Horse Association approved youth activities events. In addition, each of the 43 affiliated state associations were invited to send two additional entries per class. The finals represented the "cream of the crop" of 6000 members of the AQHA, the largest youth horse organization in the world.

Pattern Shotgun For Clean Kills

Most bird hunters would have to admit that they know little if anything about what comes out of their shotgun when the trigger is pulled. But it only takes a few minutes to learn exactly what kind of pattern a shotgun tosses and it could mean the difference in the number of clean kills scored this hunting season.

With dove season beginning Sept. 1 in the North Zone, hunters are advised by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department that patterning can be accomplished anywhere that shooting is permissible. All that's needed is a roll of wrapping paper or several sheets of newspaper. Draw a 30-inch circle and pin the paper target to a frame or suitable stand; never shoot at a tree or anything else which could be damaged by a load of birdshot.

Since most doves are taken at a range of about 40 yards, pace off 40 steps for the first shot at the circle. Be sure to use the exact loads you will be shooting during open season. The number of pellet holes within the 30-inch circle shows the effective pattern you can expect on a well-placed shot at a flying target.

Around 50 percent of the shot will be within the circle. Surprised? Most gunners are. The percentage varies with the choke and can range from almost 75 percent on full choke to only 40 percent with cylinder bore (no choke).

To determine percentage, divide the circled holes by the shot pellets contained in the load you shoot. For example, a 12-gauge shell with 1 1/8 ounces of No. 7 1/2 shot contains some 395 pellets (consult a chart in a good gunning book). If the circle has 229 holes, the percentage is 58.

A couple more shots on fresh paper at 20 and 30 yards are equally eye-opening. Even improved cylinder barrels "tighten" considerably at shorter ranges where the shot string, like a stream of water from a garden hose, is beginning to disperse.

While you're at it, it is worth the time to pattern shotguns with various choke settings, tubes or barrels and the different shotshell loads to be used later for ducks, geese and quail.

Knowing your shotgun, perhaps it will be less of a mystery why some birds last season flew right on through a sure shot.

Fishing Violations

Top Wardens Chore

Summer has always been a time when the game wardens come across more than the usual number of sport fishing violations.

This year it's gotten out of hand.

As of July 31, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department wardens filed 1,229 citations for various sport fishing infractions. The majority -- 1,067 -- were for failure to have a $4.25 fishing license.

Following close behind the Texans who ran afoul of fishing laws were the 1,208 boating enthusiasts who were cited for water safety violation. Most failed to have the proper number of life jackets on board their crafts.

Welding Course Set At Temple

Applications are now being taken for Temple Junior College's welding program scheduled to begin September 3, Stanley Churchill, Dean of Technical-Vocational Division, has announced.

The welding program at TJC is an Adult Education Preparatory Program and is open to any person who wants to learn oxygen acetylene type welding and electronic arc welding. Mr. Churchill explained. The 16 week welding class will meet nightly for three hours Monday through Thursday giving the student a total of 192 hours of classroom instruction.

Space for the program is being provided to TJC by the Veterans Administration with the Texas Education Agency providing funds for equipment, Churchill said.

Instructor for the course will be Earl Massingill. Students who successfully complete the TJC welding course will be eligible for the American Welding Certification test and could be employable as welders upon completion of the course, Churchill said.

Aircraft Owners Must File Return

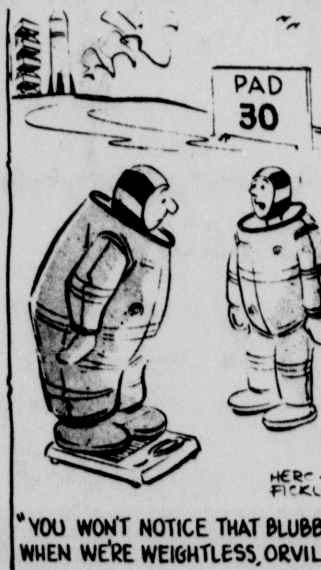

Aircraft owners must file a special Federal tax return, Form 4638, by Sept. 3 for aircraft in use during July.

"The annual fee for each aircraft is $25 plus tax of 3 1/2 cents for each pound of maximum certified take off weight for turbine powered aircraft, and 2 cents certified take off weight over 2,500 pounds for other aircraft," according to Richard J. Stakem, Jr., district director.

The tax year for the Use Tax begins July 1 and runs through June 30. If the first taxable use by an aircraft occurs after July 31, the tax based on weight is proportionately reduced. The return is due on the next succeeding day.

These tax revenues are used for construction and improvement of public airports and air control facilities.

"Forms 4638 and additional information on the aircraft use tax are available at IRS offices," he said.

How embarrassing to recognize a person's face but be unable to recall his name! It happens to most of us occasionally.

God always knows us. His eye is always open to see us. His ear is always open to hear us. We can enjoy His acquaintance daily.

We can enjoy the Presence of God in a special way when we attend church. When we turn our attention fully upon Him, when we elevate our thinking to those matters which hold eternal value, God speaks in the warmest of tones.

Yes, God knows us. He calls us by name. He never forgets.

SUMMER'S
WEEKEND.

Labor Day is the last long weekend for summertime picnic fun. Let's make it a special one. Picnics can vary from grandstand snacks to country banquets. With the availability of insulated equipment and portable grills, picnics can be more convenient, more fun and more stylish. They needn't feature the same old foods. Be as simple, or as elaborate, as you want; but don't limit your food choices to the routine. Do remember to keep hot foods hot and cold foods as cold as possible for safety. Make the Labor Day weekend a real occasion.
